Institutional Membership is by invitation. Individual membership is by referral.

If your institution is already a member of ASQA, please talk to either your academic advisor or, if in the private sector, your "supervisor" (or whomever you think, in your organization, might be entrusted with admin passwords and the like) either one can grant you access to QuantBase without our manual interference. This is, needless to say, our preferred method for you to sign up. Otherwise, feel free to register - but you won't be able to access very much without credentials.

NSF/WEF Users: Please note that the "public" migration to .org does NOT mean you need to re-register. Accounts have been created for you already (accounts which are already tied to your data sets, which, we assure you, are safe and sound). Please login to the old .edu frontend and check your user alerts for your new login credentials to ASQA.org. You will also find instructions on a new "sharing" option/functionality that many of you have long requested. :)

As always, contact us if anything quirks out on you and we'll do our best to fix it (or you!) as quickly as possible.
